Art. 28¹B. Protection of legal personality / II. Against infringements / 1. Principle

II. Against infringements

1. Principle

¹ Any person whose personality rights are unlawfully infringed may petition the court for protection against all those causing the infringement.

² An infringement is unlawful unless it is justified by the consent of the person whose rights are infringed or by an overriding private or public interest or by law.

¹ Amended by No I of the FA of 16 Dec. 1983, in force since 1 July 1985 (AS 1984 778; BBl 1982 II 636).
